Dew bags 7-point

GILBERTOWN — Ken Dew killed this 165-pound seven-point buck last week. Ken told the Sun that the only bad thing about the deer was that both sides of its horns were not equal.

Notice to Customers of Millry Telephone Company, Inc. and Millry Communication, Inc.

Due to a change in Alabama law, beginning February 1, 2007, certain intrastate telephone services provided by Millry Telephone Company, Inc. and Millry Communication, Inc. (collectively "Millry Communications"), other than Basic Telephone Service and certain stand-alone Optional Calling Features, will no longer be provided under tariffs (filed rate schedules) approved by the Alabama Public Service Commission. These newly de-tariffed services include "packages" or "bundles," special promotions, long-distance, and all services provided to business customers with more than four lines. Contracts in place prior to September 1, 2006 remain subject to regulation for the term of the contract. As of February 1, 2007, such services (with the limited exception of certain business service arrangements, which will be governed by contracts, signed by both parties, specific to those arrangements) shall be governed by the Millry Customer Service Agreement ("Agreement"), which incorporate your service order and/or our Price List. If you order non-telephone services a part of a bundle, such as Internet services, you may also be subject as well to additional terms and conditions related to such services. A complete copy of the Agreement, as well as any terms and conditions for other services, may be found at www.millry.net and will be mailed to all affected customers. The Terms & Conditions will not result in a change in your current service and rates on February 1, 2007. We will provide you with at least thirty (30) days notice prior to any subsequent change in the Agreement or to any price increase, other than one related to increased costs attributable to collection of government-imposed taxes or fees. The Agreement also includes a disclaimer of warranties, a limitation of liability, and an arbitration clause (in lieu of civil lawsuit) in which we agree to pay for your filing fee in some instances.

The Agreement will take effect automatically for all affected services provided by Millry Communications on February 1, 2007 unless you disconnect your service or change to stand-alone Basic Telephone Service, with or without Optional Telephone Features. If you have questions, please call us at (888) 227-5710.
