

CCES honors Black History

Choctaw Sun photos by Marcus Gates
 BUTLER -- Choctaw Co. Elementary held its Black History program last Thursday, with music and tribute to African-American leaders, past and present. Among the music entertainment was a duet by Erica Bell and Jonathan Johnson.

Among local leaders honored during the program were Lisman Mayor Thomas Jackson and Transportation Director for the school system, Edward Dubose.

An annual part of the event was the dramatic skit 'Ain't I a Woman?' presented by Christella Butler.

Choctaw County Head Start

BUTLER -- Choctaw Co. Head Start held its Black History Program at the Butler Civic Center on Friday evening. The program starred the comedy routing of 'Condolezza Price' (aka Cheryl McGrew), and 'Okra Winfrey' (aka. Michelle Harris), along with song and dance by the Heade Start students and moving tributes to black Americans by parents and staff members.

Fulcher is highest scoring math-a-lete

TOXEY -- South Choctaw Academy 8th grader Shelby Fulcher has earned the opportunity to compete at the state AISA Middle School Math Competition to be held at Faulkner University on Tuesday, February 27. Fulcher will represent SCA, as well as the district, at the state competition because of her high individual score during district-level competition last Tuesday, February 20.
