Sharing Shakespeare at CCHS

'MacBeth' and 'Lady McBeth (Laquinesha Chaney), exchange a hug as they act out a portion of the play.

The senior class at Choctaw County High School shared a little Shakespeare with the ir fellow students last Friday during their Shakespeare Festival. The event included projects on various aspects of life in Shakespeare's day, as well as a reenactment of a portion of one of the writer's more famous works, MacBeth. Pictured is 'MacBeth' (aka Dondricus Pringle, after he had the king killed so that he himself could become 'king.'

As his Shakespeare presentation, Willie Wise read a poem about the play MacBeth.

Erin Bryan presents her project about Shakespeare and his play MacBeth.

Students check out some of the visuals prepared for the Shakespeare presentation.

Brittany Harris shows off her project, which displayed some of the jewelry and artistic talent of the Shakespearean era.
